

Sinclair Broadcast Group's recent actions have already cause me to stop going to various businesses who have been (I hope correctly) listed as supporting the swift boat mudslingers program to be aired.

I also intend to follow up on this by seeing who like Burger King have withdrawn advertising support of the program.

While I recognize the ambiguities and complexities of FCC's role in political activities, I nonetheless am certain that the context of this propoganda effort is qualitatively and quantitatively different than Moore's propoganda venue.
